You, Sir or Ma'am, are the envy of a world of people. Because you eat better and spend less of your pay for groceries today than anyone, anywhere, anytime!

Americans spend 19% of income for food. Englishmen spend 29% of income for food. Russians spend 50% or more of income for food.*

Farmers, railroaders, truckers, wholesalers, food processors and grocers have helped to bring your food costs down. Compared with 1947-49, when the average American worked 60 hours to earn a month's supply of groceries, we work 23 fewer hours today to set out tables for a month with good nourishing things to eat.

As the Beverly Hillbillies say,"eatin's gettin' easier .. and much more fun!"

Years Ago

By C. M.

The first of the century's great hurricanes, September 21, 1938 (continued).

It seems incredible that at the height of the hurricane--when the ocean was flooding the streets, when seas were smashing buildings and driving boats into houses, when the 90 mile wind was felling trees like matchsticks on every street--it seems incredible that at such a time almost everybody in town was walking or driving about the streets and waterfront to watch the ocean come ashore and the buildings, boats and trees come crashing down.

But so it was. For nobody knew it was a hurricane. Never within living memory had there been one; it was inconceivable; also, the change from ordinary gale to full hurricane fury happened so fast that people were stunned and walked about in a daze.

The wind blew so hard that it was impossible to face it or to breathe while facing it or to walk in its path without lurching and falling and being blown against fences and buildings. Wooden shingles were ripped from roofs and just took off in the air to disappear in the grey scud.

Suddenly the water rose so high that its level was above the rim of the land; and the huge 20 foot combers swept inland carrying everything before them.

Buzzards Bay had simply filled up and overflowed. In the open ocean the vast volume of water piled up before hurricane winds spreads over thousands of miles. But when it is driven into a shallow, funnel-shaped bay, it has no place to go but up and up until it spills over. Then the seas roar inland.

The water swirled 12 feet deep at the foot of Pearl Street, flooding the first floor of the big Monroe house. The whole area west of the town, from Main Street to the River,--the Marsh, Mahoney's Lane, the Eel Pond, Goodspeed's Island--all was submerged beneath a swirling sea. The ocean rolled completely over Goodspeed's Island and swept wreckage and boats over the railroad tracks, across the Eel Pond, to the back yards of the houses along Route 6. The force of the sea was so great that the railroad tracks were pushed as a unit through the earth several inches to the north, leaving a neat rectangular hole at the south end of each railroad tie. Further along toward the head of the harbor the sea broke completely through the island, digging a new channel through to the Eel Pond and leaving the railroad tracks hanging in air. The sea went up the River to the Herring Weir; it went up the Mill Pond Brook to the Dexter Elm, carrying a small building across Route 6 there.

Main Street below Depot Street was all a part of this sea. The lower floor of every house on lower Main Street and every house on the west side of the next block was flooded and battered. The Town Hall sat in the middle of a sea, the water going up Church Street as far as Baptist Street. (the fire engines were got out just in time.)

The Town Wharves were under 15 feet of water while the giant combers carried every boat but two ashore. (Enoch Winslow drove his, uninjured, into the street by the Barclay (Gibbons) house; John Christ's boat sunk in the slip.) The rest of the boats drove up lower Pearl St., crashed into the Monroe house, or were driven up Main Street as far as the Town Hall corner. The schooner Clione finally ended up in Mahoney's Lane.

And all this time the gale howled and shrieked and roared and blew the tower off the Town Hall and blew all the leaves and twigs and small branches off the trees so the next spring they looked as if somebody had scalped them. At the other end of the village, in the low area between Cannonville Hill and North Street the combers poured unchecked across Water Street. They smashed boats, piers, rafts, town bath houses, the old cooper shop, piling the debris 100 yards inland and de-

Boats and debris battered in the Hinsdale, Lowe and Bolles houses; the water rolled into cellars of houses on the north side of Water Street and started up Mechanics and Barstow.

Meanwhile at all the beaches the sea and wreckage were indescribable. (To be continued.)

FIRST DISTRICT DIRECTOR HONORED AT CLUB

Mrs. Charles Dean, First District Director, was guest of the Rochester Woman's Club at the October meeting. Looking very attractive in black brocade with pearls, Mrs. Dean was presented with a fall corsage. The First District Director's home club is the Cabot Club in Middleboro where she resides. She has served in all the offices of hew own club and many of the chairmanships. Mrs. Dean has also served on the Publicity, Legislation and International Affairs Committees for the State Federation. This is the second year of her two-year term as First District Director.

Mrs. Dean noted that there are now 43,000 club members in the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs. She said that there was almost 100% enrollment in the First District in the Community Improvement Program. There is a $500 prize for the state entered 100%. She also spoke of the Shell Oil Educational Program of Scholarships which awards two $500 to students wishing to enter a college, agricultural or technical school after high school. Of great concern to Mrs. Dean is the crusade of the National Federation of Women's Clubs for seat belts. She cited a personal experience while driving on the Southeast Expressway and stressed the importance of having them for children.

Mrs. Dean spoke of the Memorial Bell Tower which will be erected at Cathedral in the Pines, Rindge, New Hampshire in memory of the women who lost their lives in the war. This will be the first memorial in the country to the WAACS, WAVES and nurses who served their country along side of the men. Mrs. Dean urged all who could to visit this beautiful spot which was given by a man in memory of soldier son. Religious services in the Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths are held there.

The latest "Federation Topics", the State publication, was reviewed by Mrs. Dean. A new format has made it more interesting than ever. Contents include a bulletin board of coming events, letters from chairmen, the Directors' columns written each month and unusually good recipes.

Restoration of the old Clough-Langdon House next to the Old North Church in Boston is a project of the Mass. Federation of Women's Clubs. Mr. Clough Langdon was the builder of the Old North Church in 1715. The project will be to raise money for the refurnishing of the home and the restoration of the gardens through various channels and to be completely responsible for one room in the house. Mrs. Dean reported that Mrs. J. Carrell Morris, former State Chairman of Legislation for three years, has been appointed the first permanent representative to attend all meeting of the Mass. State Legislature while it is in session and report back all information to the State Federation.

MATTAPOISETT PONY CHAMPS TO BE HONORED

Next Sunday at 1:30 at Gaudette's Pavilion in Acushnet the Mattapoisett Pony League Team will be honored at a banquet. They won the championship of the National Division of the Elks Pony League but lost the Greater New Bedford Championship to the Exchange Club.

This was their first year in stiff competition and they came thru in fine style. They played all their games away from home with very few attending their games.

It is hoped that parents and friends of these fine boys will be on hand to see them honored next Sunday. Hal Goodnough, a scout for the Milwaukee Braves, will be the principal speaker. Each boy has received a free ticket. Tickets can be obtained from Ed Valladoa, SK 8-3381.

BOOSTERS CLUB MEETING

Old Rochester Boosters Club will meet this Wednesday, October 9th, at the Old Rochester Regional High School at 8 o'clock. Coach Almeida will show colored slides of the Dighton-Rehoboth game. Interested adults of the towns are invited. Wives may join Boosters Club with no extra charge. Al Crabtree will preside.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of Presto Press:

Before me is probably the last copy of a unique, folksy, interesting little paper I shall receive. It will be missed. Its editorials, up to the minute and to the point. Its covers, well drawn or photographed, its way of traveling back in time by way of its bits of town history of whaling ships and strong men and women who founded and kept alive such a delightful place to live.

Many of the names mentioned in its pages must have belonged to the friendly faces which greeted me every night at the new little post office and made me feel as if I really "belonged". To them all, and you of "Presto Press" I wish to express thanks for a too short but happy year in "Our Town".

Steven Almeida, the secretary pro tem of the Mattapoisett Little League Association, was first speaker and outlined the immediate need of a park as well as the ways and means by which it can be acquired and maintained.

George Sharp, president of the Greater New Bedford Little League, expounded the purposes of organized sports for the younger boys of the little league and the need for community support to instill in our youth team play and sportsmanship and the will to improve their abilities by hard work and perserverance so that better boys will become better men. Al Setera and Don Dufresne accompanied and assisted Mr. Sharp with data on fund drives and other information.

Walter Hardman, president of the South End Junior Pony League and the principal speaker, was eloquent in his review of the start of the South End Junior Pony League and how it grew to the wonderful organization it is today. He lauded the men who made this possible and the Ladies Aux. of his group whom he said "are the most efficient and progressive and the hardest workers of all." Mr. Hardman was ably assisted by Mr. Walter Clegg, designer of the South End Field who answered questions on building and maintaining a field.

One of the outstanding episodes of the evening was when a delegation representing the Mattapoisett Greens team - Captain John Guilherme and Co-captain and treasurer, Timmie Smith, present to Hal Peterson $10 for a Build the Park Fund which until then was non-existent. This set off a chain reaction and brought donations from Mr. Hardman, Mr. Sharp, Mr. Setera, Mr. Dufresne and Mr. Cocker, a Mattapoisett Little League Booster. Mr. Cocker's son-in-law, John DeMello, managed the Mattapoisett Blues team which won the Capeway Little League Championship by having an undefeated, untied record.
